

Application for summer
Work-Study
For students
NOT enrolled in summer school

Eligibility:

Federal Work-Study allocated during the academic year cannot be used during the summer! Academic work-study funding may only be earned during the dates specified on the work study verification form.

However, students who are eligible to receive Federal aid during the 2007-2008 and 2008-2009 academic years, may apply to receive work-study during the summer.

Funds available:

Students who are enrolled in summer session classes will receive federal work-study as part of the summer financial aid award. These students should complete a summer school financial aid application.

Students who are not enrolled in summer session classes but who will be working for either a Duke department or a non-profit participating in the work-study program may apply and receive summer work-study if there is a valid FAFSA on file for BOTH the previous and up-coming school year.

Non-enrolled students will be awarded Work-Study according to academic year:
Eligible rising sophomores will receive $3950.00 in Federal Work-Study
Eligible rising juniors will receive $4050.00 in Federal Work-Study
Eligible rising seniors will receive $4150.00 in Federal Work-Study

Students who are enrolled in one session of summer school may apply to receive non-enrolled workstudy for the portion of the summer which they are not in class. In this case, students will be awarded half the above allocation.

Deadlines and Dates to remember:

Summer work-study awards for non-enrolled students will be determined on a rolling basis. Summer One work-study for non-enrolled students is only valid between May 3, 2008 and June 30, 2008. Summer Two work-study for non-enrolled students is only valid between July 1, 2008 and August 17, 2008.

Summer Earnings Requirement:

Federal work-study earned during the summer will be counted toward the student's summer earnings requirement.

Finding a Job

Students interested in finding a summer job on Duke's campus should visit the Duke E-Recruiting website accessed through the Career Development Center at <http://duke.erecruiting.com>

Students interested in finding work at a non-profit should contact the Community Service Center at: <http://csc.studentaffairs.duke.edu/index.html>

All non-profits participating in the work-study program must sign a contract with the work-study office.

Please fill out the following form to receive Federal Work-study funding for the summer period between May 3, 2008 and August 17, 2008. Students who meet the eligibility requirements will receive the summer work-study verification form via e-mail.
